DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 18 April 2007 has been entered.

Response to Submission

The objection to the Specification requiring a substitute specification in proper idiomatic English and in compliance with 37 CFR 1.52(a) and (b) is hereby expressly withdrawn in view of the Substitute Specification submitted 18 March 2007.

Further, the rejection of claims 1-14 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention, is hereby expressly withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4-6, 9 and 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP 06-298556.

The cited reference discloses the manufacture of compositions as an additive for cement comprising copolymers polycarboxylic acid and an alcohol having polyoxyalkylene chains as claimed. The prior art disclosures have features and characteristics as claimed. Physical characteristics not expressly disclosed would appear to be inherent in view of the various other characteristics disclosed.

Applicants argue that this prior art is different because it discloses additives with several combinations or possibilities of combination of the various components. The Examine does not find Applicants' arguments convincing because the prior art does disclose the copolymer having the various units.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 18 April 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

With regard to the rejection of claims 1, 4-6, 9 and 11-13 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP 06-298556, it is pointed out that applicants must show why the Formula II does not anticipate the recitations herein, not merely opine as to what is disclosed that may not be recited in the instant claims. The burden is on applicants to show why the patent discloses are not anticipatory since the reference discloses what is recited and claimed herein. As long as the reference shows values embracing those recited using constituents, as recited, the reference is deemed relevant to the instantly claimed invention. A reference is taken for the entirety of its teachings and not for isolated passages or Examples intended to proffer patentability on the instant claims. The comparison made in the Declaration was not made with the actual breadth of the patent teachings a single, isolated example. Again, a reference is viewed for the entirety of its teachings. Since the reference teaches values for n1=1-8, a comparison of that realm would be necessary to negate the teachings therein. Further, when a reference discloses all of the limitations of a claim except a property or function, and the Examiner is unable to determine whether or not the reference inherently possesses properties that anticipate or render obvious the claimed invention, basis exists for shifting the burden of proof to applicant. Note In re Fitzgerald et al 619 F. 2d 67, 70, 205 USPQ 594, 596 (CCPA 1980). Note MPEP § 2112-2112.02. For these reasons, the Declaration of Matsui, of 31 August 2006, is hereby dismissed since the composition of the reference chosen for comparison
